

EBHC International Joint Conference
The Ecosystem of Evidence
Lessons learned in the pandemic era
and future challenges

25th - 28th October 2023

Taormina, Italy

Sponsorship and Exhibition

EBHC International Joint Conference represents a unique opportunity for Sponsoring Organizations to engage with a large audience of worldwide EBHC teachers and developers: the presence of EBHC international leaders and speakers, as well as the cross-discipline nature of the program fully justifies the presence of companies in different areas.

Thanks to different sponsorship and exhibition packages and opportunities, organizations may build a personalized chance to powerfully communicate their message, as well as promoting their services and products.

About GIMBE Foundation

The mission of GIMBE Foundation is to strengthen continuing medical education of health professionals as self-directed lifelong learning process integrated into clinical practice; improve methodological quality, ethics, integrity and social value of health research; translate the best evidence into professional, managerial and political decision-making; enhance the quality of healthcare in terms of safety, efficacy, appropriateness, equity, consumer involvement, efficiency.

About ISEHC

The International Society for Evidence-Based Health Care exists to foster and promote EBHC globally within the environment of a recognized organization, bringing together and strengthening efforts started in different countries. Such integrated environment may provide a context of continuous exchange and contribution within which resources and principles of EBHC may be achieved in a way that amplify their use and effectiveness worldwide.

The EBHC International Joint Conference

The 10th International Conference of Evidence-Based Health Care (EBHC) Teachers & Developers, joint meeting with the 10th Conference of the International Society for Evidence-Based Health Care will focus on how the COVID-19 pandemic has impacted the ecosystem of evidence and what future challenges should be faced to connect the generation, synthesis and translation of evidence to individuals and populations.

Internationally renowned EBHC champions will trace the way forward through the ecosystem of evidence while dozens of researchers will present their experiences. Delegates will live an exciting journey departing from two main topics: the lessons learned in the pandemic era to produce, synthesize and use updated evidence for global health and the need for an EBP core curriculum for all health professionals. Then the audience will be carried through the pillars of the evidence ecosystem: evidence generation, synthesis and translation.
